STRICTER LAWS URGED.

IMMIGRATION OFFICIALS WOULD MAKE PROMISE TO SECURE WORK A CONTRACT.

The hearing of the sub-committee of the United States Industrial Commission which is inquiring into the working of the immigration laws at this was resumed in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday morning. The examination of the Assistant Commissioner of Immigration, Edward F. McSweeney, who was on the stand when the committee adjourned on Monday, was resumed. Ellison A. Smyth, the chairman, questioned witness regarding the existence of the padrone system in this country.

"If by the padrone system," said Mr. McSweeney, is meant that immigrants are controlled after they come here; that the commissariat is regulated these men; that their money is sent back to what we consider the padrone system, it still ex-The system reputed to have obtained years whereby the bankers and padrones induced these men to come here, I do not think any exists. There is no need for it. They now come of their own accord. Before they come they that by going to a certain banker be will find employment for them. My impression is that the Italian immigrants prefer to be under the control of the padrone.." Mr. McSweeney was questioned in regard to Mormon immigration. He said that probably 95 per cent of the new Mormon arrivals were women, the faith seemingly having a greater fascination for women than for men. They all came over in charge of an elder who had been preaching in Europe for two or three years. They all declare that they intend to obey the laws of the United

"There are a great many Canadians who come here every year to work, and then return. The problem is more pressing in Boston than here. The port of Boston receives as many immigrants from Canada as from Europe. It has been esti-moted that from fifty thousand to seventy thou-and come here every year, and many of them find their way as far South as New-Orleans, where they work as longshoremen."

Mr. McSweeney's examination was suspended, and he gave way to Gustav H. Schwab, one of the agents of the North German Lloyd Steamship Company, who was sworn.

Schwab prefaced his statement by saying that most of the steamship agents here who are citizens of the United States are reputable citins, and that the foreign agents have no desire to throw into this country a low class of persons who can never be assimtlated. Mr. Schwab said he believed the immigration laws were intelligently and carefully executed.

Witness said that the steamship companies had issued orders to their agents to investigate all ns applying for passage, and his company held such agents personally responsible if the immigrant is returned. He believed a rigid investigation of the antecedents of such persons was more liable than the proposed consular investigation. The agents in many cases were personally ac quainted with the applicants, while there were not shough consuls to examine all the applicants. Schwab spoke of the educational test, and said he thought it unwise to keep out the brawn and muscle which are needed for the development of the country. He declared that statistics show that the persons who come from the illiterate countries, principally Italy, Austria, Hungary and countries, principally Italy, Austria, Hungary and Russia, were the most law abiding, as shown by the prison returns.

Robert Floyd, representing the Cunard Line, said he agreed with everything which Mr. Schwab had said. His passengers, he said, were drawn from Great Britain and Ireland and Scandinavia. He said his company would not be a party to any attempt to evade the immigration law. Agents, he asserted, who book a passenger who is returned are at once disciplined. Mr. Floyd had no suggestions to make as to remedial legislation.

Arthur Lederer, passenger manager of the American and Red Star lines, said his companies last year brought 25,000 passengers in the steerage. Of these 40 per cent were prepaid. The number of immigrants arriving fluctuated from year to year. When times were good immigration was heavy, because farmers were then able to bring their families from Europe. Mr. Lederer said his companies did not cater to business which might result in having to return the passengers. Agents abroad were only permitted to use the ordinary methods of business to secure passengers.

Mr. Schwab was recalled, and denied emphatically the statements made before the sub-committee in Washington that the steamship companies maintained a powerful lobby at the National capital.

"Since the death of Dr. Gladis," he said, "who panies maintained a portional capital.

Mr. McSweeney, who was recalled, said he do not believe immigration of the right sort was hurting the country at the present time. Applications for ten thousand unskilled workmen had been made on the immigration authorities since the revival of business last spring, which they could not furnish and had no authority to furnish.

Mr. McSweeney offered a number of suggestions of amendments to the present immigration laws. Among those offered was one that the immigrant should declare whether he intended to become a citizen of the United States; another, to give to the Commissioner General of Immigration power to expend the over fund received at this port at the stations of Boston and other ports, where the income is smaller; and that false testimony given before the Boards of Special Inquiry be punished as perjury. This latter Mr. McSweeney regarded as the most important of all.

Mr. McSweeney said he believed a recodification of the immigration laws a necessity, with such amendments as practical experience has suggested. He believed an investigation of the connection between immigration and crime a pressing need, and was of more vital importance than the economic dangers.

John J. Quinlan, supervising inspector of the Contract Labor Eureau, explained the workings of his department and the law which guides him. Mr. Quinlan suggested that the law be so amended that any alien coming to this country under any inducement, request or suggestion that work could be secured here, although there may be no contract or agreement of any kind, should be excluded; and all persons offering or holding out such inducement should be subject to the penalties already provided for contractors.

should be subject to the penalties already provided for contractors.

The witness gave interesting testimony of the book of passage" from Italy, and his more skilled brother from the North of Ireland, England and Scetland. He had heard it stated that this class of persons carry away $20,00,000 every year, going frome with large sums of money and returning with just sufficient to save themselves from being deported as likely to become public charges.

Dr. L. Williams, surgeon at the Barge Office; Dr. Safford, the Marine Hospital surgeon on duty at the Barge Office; Edward B. Holman, secretary of the Board of Special Inquiry, and Charles Eichler, statistician, were also examined. The hearing will be continued to-day.

TROUBLE OVER COLORED GIRLS.

AN EMPLOYMENT AGENT BRINGS THEM FROM THE SOUTH-THEY BECOME BURDENS UPON THE POOR AUTHORITIES.

Albany, July 25.-The State Board of Charities has taken up the case of Peregrino, the colored employment bureau agent, who opened an office here a few weeks ago. Peregrino's plan was to bring a few weeks ago. Peregrino's plan was to bring colored help from the South, he advancing the railroad fares and promising to secure them employment with the proviso that they pay him a certain percentage of their wages for his trouble. In several instances the girls have not proved satisfactory, and being unable to meet their obligations to Peregrino, he has seized their trunks as security. As a result, the State and local poor authorities have been forced to care for the unfortunates.

The State Board will consult the Attorney Gen-eral as to the mode of procedure to be taken in order to put a stop to the practice. Peregrino is now in Georgia looking up another consignment of colored folk to bring North.

EXPORTERS FILE PROTESTS.

OBJECT TO PAYING DUTIES ON GOODS FROM PORTO RICO, ALSO TO AFFIXING REVENUE STAMPS ON BILLS OF LADING.

Boston, July 25.-Several Boston business house which do business with Porto Rico and some of the other newly acquired possessions of the United States have filed protests with the Treasury Department against paying duties on goods brought from these possessions.

The ground taken in these protests is substan tially that these possessions have become parts of the United States, and that products from those places to the United States ought to be subjected to the same treatment that is accorded products of-dered for sale between different States of this country.

A protest has also been filed against the practice required by the War Revenue laws of affixing a ten-cent stamp on a bill of lading. It is claimed that this tax is unconstitutional, since taxes on exports are particularly prohibited, and the cost of the stamp is charged up to the goods exported.

CANADIAN BANK SUSPENDS PAYMENT.

CHIEF ACCOUNTANT AND PAYING TELLER SAID TO BE IMPLICATED-LOSS ESTIMATED AT $60,000.

Montreal, July 25.-The Ville Marie Bank, one the smaller chartered Canadian banks, with head-quarters in this city and branches through Quebec Province, suspended payment this morning. Yesterday afternoon an investigation showed a considerable shortage in the accounts, and this get-ting out brought on a run which forced the bank to close its doors. The officials implicated are F. X. Lemieux, chief accountant, and J. J. Herbert, paying teller. It is said that they worked in usion, and robbed the bank of currency, losing the money in stock speculations. So far as known the money in stock speculations. So far as known the defalcation is about $60,600, but will probably go higher when all the accounts are audited. Herbert and Lemieux disappeared yesterday, but are thought to be in hiding in the city.

The suspension of the bank had no serious effect on business, though local stocks, generally, showed a decline on the Stock Exchange on account of it. The bank is comparatively unimportant, with a capital of $500,000 and a note circulation of $250,000.

Under the Canadian Banking act a bank when in difficulties has the right to suspend payment for ninety days, and the bank will take advantage of this provision. Expert accountants have been placed in charge, and if the defalcation does not exceed the figure already stated the bank will probably resume business.

Mr. Sage went home early yesterday, but a clerk in his office said late in the afternoon that he had not heard of any such meeting as Mr. Sage had said was to be held. Nohedy downtown, as far as could be ascertained, knew anything of the appeal to the courts alleged to be in contemplation. There was no improvement yesterday in the price of gas stocks, and the general opinion is that the war rumored yesterday that the Consolidated Gas Company recently made a nine month's contract to furnish gas at 60 cents a thousand cubic feet, with the privilege of renewing the contract for another nine month's at 70 cents or lower. MILK TRUST NOT A PROBABILITY. RUMORS OF A FALL TIE UP SENT OUT APPAR-ENTLY FOR SOME PURPOSE.

Further investigation was made yesterday in regard to the alleged milk trust. From the informa-Five States' Alliance is entering on campaign similar to the campaign which met with failure last March, and with no better prospects of the Borden Condensed Milk Company, which distributes milk to over ninety thousand customers in this city, and which buys directly from the farmers throughout an extensive territory, much of which is covered by the alliance. Mr. Milbank is an overseer of the company's receiving stations, to which the farmers deliver milk. In speaking of the proposed combination he said: "A similar attempt was made last March. In the preceding winter several leaders took the matter in hand and induced many of the producers to hold ers for the ensuing six months. At one of our branches the farmers held daily meetings for some time previous to the day when all contracts with farmers were in communication with the promoters in New-York, and in spite of promise after promise could not learn what they should do with their milk if they did not sell it to us. At the last moment they threw up the combination idea and

"Even if the farmers who are now sending milk to this city can secure a higher price, it would only be temporary. Producers living too far from the railroad to realize any profit at the old price in hauling their milk to the stations, who are making it into butter and cheese, would instantly respond the laws of supply and demand. I can give you practical proof of what I say. In 1894 we established a branch in a dairy region on the New-York, have a production of five thousand quarts a day. a somewhat higher price than that paid reameries, and found the supply in 1899 to thousand quarts. You see, the good news milk trust said that the producers have not the capital requisite.

"In Orange, Sullivan and Delaware counties," he said, "which produce a great part of the milk consumed in this city, the farmers do not own one-third of the cans used. They haul their milk to the station in every kind of a receptacle, Now, in order to be independent capital must be drawn on, not only for cans, but a hundred other important facilities. Even when this is done and the milk arrives in New-York, who is to be responsible for it?

facilities. Even when this is done and the marrives in New-York, who is to be responsible for it?

"This report has gone out for a more profound reason than the public imagines. Last winter promoters went around to the farmers and for the small sum of $2$ a head obtained the power of attorney. The combination was scheduled to take place April 1, but we saw no signs of it. Since then further assessments have been levied, and in order to give the enterprise a fair semblance of progress the story goes out of a tie up on October 1.

"No, sir, there is no more probability of a milk trust than of a wind trust."

After walking nine miles she found a cabin in which three fishermen were wintering. THE EDMONTON ROUTE A DEATH TRAP. PERILS AND DIFFICULTIES ENCOUNTERED BY PROSPECTORS WHO TOOK IT.

Seattle, Wash., July 25.-A "Times" dispatch from Vancouver, B. C., says that C. R. Malthy, who has arrived there from Dawson, was nfteen months on the Edmonton route. With about one hundred other prospectors he wintered at Wind City. When he left that place, in January, sixteen men were sick with scurvy. He heard in March that Dr. Mason, of Chicago, and W. Gouchie, son of a Chicago banker, were dying. There were about fifty men stranded there, scurvy stricken and frozen. E. H. Harris, of Hamilton, had both feet frozen, and they were amputated at the ankles. Two Rus-sians, named Boorman, from California, were dying with scurvy. They were living on the siftings of sour flour only. J. Peterson, of Patterson, son of Lieutenant-Governor Peterson, of Manitoba, and C. O. Atesworth, a Chicago lawyer, were also

C. O. Atesworth, a Chicago lawyer, were also stranded in Wind City in March.

All would have been well if the Indians could have been induced to navigate beyond the divide after reaching Wind City, but there they stopped, saying that savages ten feet high roamed through the mountains and crushed men between their thumbs and fingers and ate them up. The Indians reported several parties lost in the mountains. These men will never be heard of again. It was after the Indian guides left them that they strayed into the section of the country where there was no fuel and there froze to death. The parties quarrelled among themselves and took different routes. Many remnants of parties were lost in this way, for in their anger they left the Indian guides, while the main portion of the party wandered away to the mountains to become lost.

The survey has no recent reports from the more inland regions, but it is understood that the American miners who were driven out \( \frac{\phi}{2} \) that it is described in the American miners who were driven out \( \frac{\phi}{2} \) that it is described in some cases to east of the British line. Nothing definite is known of the recent Canadian threat to cripple the American coast trade by running a railroad from Kitimat Arm to Dawson City. There is no place called Kitimat Arm on any of the American maps, and it is said to be certain that there is no tidewater point anywhere on the coast whence the Canadian Government could get inland with such a line without crossing American territory, unless it came so far down the coast as to make the undertaking impracticable from both commercial and engineering points of views.
